TWO CITIES TO CELEBRATE OPENING SAN FRANCISCO-OAKLAND BRIDGE

Festival With Various Forms of Entertainment Will Feature Four Day Period Of Jubilation By Majority Of Citizens Of Both Communities

The greatest bridge in the world will be formally opened at 10 o'clock on the morning of November 12, when the official party breaks the barrier on the Oakland side of the bay. The party will cross the bridge for the ceremonies on the San Francisco side at 11 o'clock. With the mighty battle fleet in the bay, the aeroplanes overhead and the ceremonials broadcast to the world over a national hook-up, the opening of the San Francisco-Oakland Bay Bridge will signal the greatest event in the history of the Bay Region.

A full schedule of jubilant celebration has been arranged by San Francisco and Oakland co-ordinating all of the resources of the bay region. Oakland will celebrate on Armistice Day, the day prior to the bridge opening, with a parade in the morning, a military officers luncheon at the Hotel Oakland at noon, and a military pageant, football game, and boat races, fireworks and regatta on Lake Merritt in the evening. A great ball at the Auditorium, open to the public without charge, with conclude the day.

On the opening day of the bridge, Thursday, November 12, the San Francisco Citizens Committee, working through the Junior Chamber of Commerce of San Francisco, will stage a brilliant series of maritime events, beginning with the dedication on both sides of the bay. A navy air show and an army air show, using all of the planes in port with the fleet, will be the morning event, and following the bay bridge dedication ceremonies the official party will return to Oakland for a luncheon, at which the San Francisco officials, state officials and local dignitaries will be guests of the City of Oakland.

In the afternoon, the start of the Pacific Coast Yacht Regatta will sprinkle the entire Bay north of Yerba Buena Shoals with white sails. Later there will be a flight of commercials planes, fish boat races, air races, merchant life boat race, fire boat demonstration off of Yerba

BREEDERS HOPE TO SHINE WITH HOME RUNNERS

Coast Stables Show Little Trepidation Over Coming Of Eastern Stars

With the opening of the Fall meeting at Tanforan less than four weeks away, breeders and owners of horses of the West are preparing to meet the invading host of gallopers from the big tracks beyond the Rockies. Quite a number of the California and British Columbia runners were bred out this way, while others were purchased with the intention of racing them until time came for the retirement to the various nurseries.

Major A. C. Taylor, who has a breeding farm in British Columbia, will have eighteen horses under the care of Darrel Cannon at the period of sport to open Thursday, October 8. These runners were reared in various sections and purchased by their present owner, such as the well known Indian Broom, Special Agent, Fort Springs, Red Ensign, Bonnie Grafton and others.

Other Western breeders to be represented at the fast approaching session are: C. E. Perkins, H. P. Russell, J. W. Marchbank, C. S. Howard, Errol MacBoyle, J. P. Atkin, Norman W. Church, Carleton F. Burke, H. C. Hatch, C. A. Hartwell, Sven Christenson and George Van Gorden. The Cooper brothers, owners of San Luis Rey, as usual will have well bred youngsters and older horses at the Tanforan meeting.

The inclusion of H. C. Hatch's name may come as a surprise but inasmuch as he has his stallion Sweepster and twelve fashionably bred brood mares at J. W. Marchbank's Heather Farm, it seems proper enough to place him among Western breeders of the blood horse.

Eight horses in training including the record breaker Ariel Cross will be raced in the Hatch colors at the San Bruno track with Kay Spence conditioning the high class band.

Small Boy Hurt In Street By Machine

Little eight year old William Reardon of Los Olivos avenue was treated at the Villa Sanatorium for cuts and bruises, sustained Monday evening of this week, when he was struck by an automobile driven by Mrs. Lucille Lemmon, 31, of 267 Los Olivos avenue.

The accident occurred in front of 232 Los Olivos avenue and was said to have been unavoidable.

The child was not seriously hurt.

TO LAUNCH CITY WIDE PUBLICITY CAMPAIGN TO STIMULATE BUSINESS

Preliminary Plans Outlined At Regular Meeting On Wednesday Evening

The Daly City Merchants Association is soon to launch a city wide publicity campaign to stimulate local trade. Preliminary plans for the campaign were made at a regular association meeting, Wednesday evening, September 8. Andrew Vireno and Albert H. Boynton were appointed on a committee to outline plans for the project.

Other business of the association, Wednesday night, concerned a Hallowe'en party, the last annual picnic held August 30, 1936, and the coming annual picnic of 1937.

C. Williamson, A. Boynton and S. E. Clanton were appointed to cooperate with the local American Legion Post in sponsoring a community Hallowe'en party for local children. Additional members of this committee will be named later.

Secretary Clanton resigned his office duties, stating that he did not have time to carry on the secretarial work. The past secretary, A. H. Boynton, again resumed active duty.

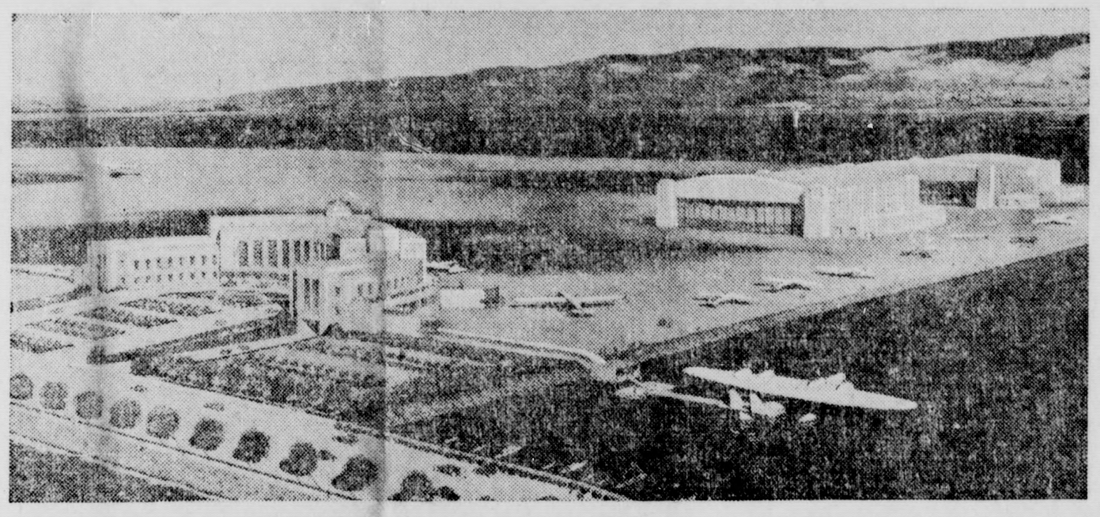
A motion was passed to contact immediately the management of Oak Cove Park and reserve the date of August 1, 1937, for next years picnic.

Campers Return From Long Rest

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Hall of 66 Parkview avenue returned recently from Mendocino county, where they have been vacationing since the first of May. They are now residing temporarily at 22 Gough street, San Francisco. Mr. Hall took this long rest on account of ill health and is now feeling well and ready for work. The natural soda and mineral springs with their elixir like water, together with the refreshing mountain air, did their part in bringing an old resident back to the home nest. They were located at Camp Beauty, on the Redwood Highway, 17 miles north of Willits and that distance from a railroad.

While in camp Mr. Hall had just been adivsed by his physician to take up a non-meat diet. The next day he and his wife were invited to a deer barbecue. Yes, the patient was true to the rules of his doctor and did not indulge. Sitting on their cabin porch, it was not uncommon to see deer grazing on a nearby hillside, and incidently the fishing is good in that "neck of the woods."

Big Airport Which San Francisco Will Build



First official sketch of San Francisco's great new municipal airport, to be opened in 1940 at Yerba Buena Shoals. The 430-acre site, now under reclamation by army engineers, will be the scene of the Golden Gate International exposition in 1939. Part of the exposition program is the construction of the three permanent structures shown in this oil painting—the Administration building, embodying the most modern design and equipment of aeronautical engineering, and the two hangars. The three buildings, financed by PWA grants, will cost more than $1,600,000.

IMPROVEMENTS ASSURED

FEDERAL GOVERNMENT ALLOWED ALLOTMENTS FOR CONSTRUCTION

Persistent Efforts Of All Citizens Result In Securing Funds To Aid In Building A Swimming Pool and Gymnasium

Completion of the gymnasium and swimming pool for the Jefferson Union High School is now assured. On Tuesday afternoon the good news was telephoned to the office of Superintendent James Ferguson at the school that the Federal Emergency Administration of Public Works had made an allotment of $69,545 to aid in the financing of the project. This sum, in addition to the $85,000 raised by the bond election in the district last March, will be sufficient to complete the entire project.

The High School Board and Superintendent Ferguson are delighted over Jefferson's good fortune. They are to be congratulated, for the fruition of this plan has come as a result of their persistent and efficient efforts in behalf of the local high school and community.

Negotiations have been going on between the school board and the federal government for over a year and a half. Every development in Washington has been carefully watched, so that no stone would be left unturned by the trustees in their efforts to secure the grant of money from the federal government. The project is one of highest merit, but it required constant care on the part of the local authorities to see that Washington was not allowed to forget. Hundreds of other projects had been passed as eligible.

At the beginning of the campaign the high school trustees secured the interest of Senator Hiram W. Johnson and Congressman John McGrath, both of whom exerted their influence to secure the grant of money from the federal government. This requir-

SCHOOL OF INSTRUCTION WILL BE HELD BY PARENT TEACHERS BODY

Many Interesting Topics To Be Discussed During Session Progress

In order to stimulate an informed membership, and to explain the purposes and aims of parent-teacher work, a school of instruction for officers and chairmen, and interested members, is to be held Friday, September 11, in Burlingame Methodist Church, under the leadership of Mrs. Elmer L. Miller, president of Seventeenth District, California Congress of Parents and Teachers, Inc.

"State Facts" will be the topic of Mrs. E. I. Bartlett's talk. Mrs. Bartlett is sixth state vice president.

Luncheon will be served promtly at 12 o'clock at Burlingame Methodist Church, and reservations may be made to Mrs. Fred Watts, reciprocity chairman.

During the afternoon session, conferences are to be held by various departmental directors of the district, also by financial officers and secretaries. A splendid publicity

EXPLAINS NEW OPPOSITION TO GAS MEASURE

Auto Association Hits Proposed Amendment — Says It Contains Jokers Unfair To Gasoline Buying Public

Why the California State Automobile Association is opposing the proposed constitutional amendment designated as Proposition No. 10 for the November 3 election was reviewed in a statement recently by George E. Sandford, general attorney for the motorists organization. The statement follows:

"Opposition by the California State Automobile Association to Proposition No. 10, the so-called 'Save The Gas Tax' initiative amendment, is being made for the following principal reasons:

"The measure is not a clean-proposal to prevent diversion of gasoline tax money but contains provisions which represent an attempt to capitalize for selfish purposes up-

PAGEANT WITH ORIENTAL CAST SHOW FEATURE

San Mateo County Products And Floral Fiesta Making Plans

With an Oriental setting and beautiful floral background, a beautiful pageant will be a nightly feature of the San Mateo County Products and Floral Fiesta, being held October 8-11 at Bay Meadows.

Every city and unincorporated district of the county will have group representation in the performance. More than 300 men and women will take part, according to Fred Carlyle, director of the pageant.

Principals of the cast are already rehearsing. This year's pageant centers around a beautiful princess and her search for a lover who is truly worthy of her hand.

Playing an important role in the pageant will be students of county high schools and the San Mateo Junior College. Carlyle spent most of last week interviewing school officials, enlisting their support in making the pageant a success.

"There is no doubt in my mind," said Martin Poss, general manager of the Fiesta, "That this year's pageant will be one of the most colorful events of its kind ever staged in an exposition of like size in California. While we have been concerned chiefly with the commercial and business elements of the show so far in this year's Fiesta, we cannot overlook the value to the show of the pageant."

Southern Girls Enjoy Visit Here

Miss Mary McManigle and Miss Ruth Claire Ryan of New Orleans left for their home, Sunday evening, after spending ten delightful days visiting at the home of their cousin, Mrs. Margaret Fahy, and the latter's daughter and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Thomson of Bellevue avenue.

While here the girls visited all important peninsula points as far south as Carmel, many East Bay points and Marin County. They also enjoyed a trip to Yosemite Valley on which they were accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Roy Thomson and Mrs. William Fahy.

SPORT FURNISHES BY FAR HIGHEST ESCAPE

By J. W. MARCHBANK

Bill Corum, International News Service sports writer, noting that it's a belligerent world in which we live, expresses the opinion sports give people something to do and think about that helps a lot to keep them out of serious internal or international trouble.

He says

"As I understand the economic situation, we have less work for more people each year. That's the real basic explanation of unemployment, isn't it? So, what are people going to do?"

The well known commentator points out that in this country people go to the races, ball games, boxing matches and football games. In many of the countries of Europe they do not go in for sport on the same scale, only having one monster turnout for some sports event or fiesta each year, or twice each year.

The crux of the whole situation is just this, according to Corum:

"Fun never bred a war."

When you go in for racing and other glamorous pastimes, as likely as not you are tardy about taking up the sword. Something worth thinking about, I'll say!

I am occupied in preparing for the race meeting to begin at Tanforan on Thursday, October eighth, and must say I am getting a big thrill out of the carrying out of the comprehensive preparations. Not the least part of the thrill comes in the thought that the fans coming to the races will have a highly enjoyable time.

War is altogether selfish. Sport is exactly the opposite. We go into it not only for the joy derived from it by ourselves, but by others. Especially if you happen to own a race track can you get the type of enjoyment that is the best in the world—giving others the opportunity for wholesome fun.

DON'T SHIELD LIGHT

If you simply cannot take the car entirely off the road to make a tire change or other minor repair at night, at least remember to work in such a way that the tail light of your car will be visible to overtaking drivers.

A number of serious mishaps in recent months have indicated that this seemingly obvious necessity is being overlooked.

CRUSADER SPIRIT INSPIRES MARINE

Variety Is The Spice Of Life According To Lexicon Of Sea Soldiers

Romance still inspires the youth of the nation on to turn to the United States Marines when in search of adventure, according to information received by the postmaster at Daly City from the Marine Corps Recruiting station.

It is stated that most of the applicants are high-spirited young fellows, from 18 to 25 years of age, and they seem to believe that by donning a Marine Corps uniform they will immediately launch themselves on a career filled with story book possibilities. If the life of the average marine is any criterion, these young fellows are not far wrong. Applicants are not promised an immediate cruise to the South Seas or to Europe, but a guarantee that a four year inlistment will give them about as much novelty and variety as they can find in any military service anywhere.

Besides serving aboard battleships and cruisers, they are in China, the Philippines, Guam, Hawaii, Cuba, Panama and elsewhere, in addition to locations along the Atlantic and Pacific seaboards.

Some of them become infantrymen, artillerymen, machine gunners or signalmen, and individuals often change about from one unit to another. They even take to the saddle and become mounted troops when they are required to patrol wide stretches of territory.

Units of the Fleet Marine Force, planned especially for service with the ships of the Navy, are stationed on the East and the West coasts, and are modern crusaders in every sense of the word, ready to "hop off" at a moment's notice.

When a recruit completes his training at San Diego, he may expect almost any kind of duty anywhere.

Recruits often ask where they will go upon completion of training, or what places will be their regular station. This question cannot be answered because no one knows. The fact that marines go everywhere and are not permanently assigned to one definite station is one of the chief attractions of our service.

Machines Collide

Thursday evening of last week two cars collided at the corner of Brunswick street and Templeton Avenue.

The car driven by Albert Callori, 21, of 782 Athens street, overturned and landed on the south east corner of Brunswick street.

The other machine was driven by C. A. Owens of 614 Hanover street.

Both cars were badly damaged, but none of the occupants were injured.

Helen Dorothy Whitney At Presbyterian Church

Helen Dorothy Whitney, rescue worker among fallen women, will be the speaker in Grace Presbyterian Church, Sunday evening at 7:45 o'clock.

Mothers and daughters of the community are especially invited to hear this thrilling speaker tell of her amazing experiences among the outcasts. A woman of faith, her story is calculated to be an encouragement to Christian people to put their faith in God.

The church is located at Hanover and Evergreen. Strangers are always welcome.

More than 7,000,000 persons have visited the San Diego Exposition.

GOVERNMENT ALLOTS FUNDS

ed personal appeals to the Federal Emergency Administration of Public Works in Washington by both Senator Johnson and Congressman Mc Grath. Supervisor Al Witt, Jr. also made a personal plea for the high school when he was in Washington to secure an allowance of funds for the construction of the Coastside highway.

In addition, telegrams and letters were sent to Washington by the County Board of Supervisors, the City Council of Daly City and the Parent Teachers Associations of the grammar schools of the district as well as of Jefferson Union High School. Fraternal and other organizations such as the American Legion were called upon for help and each did its share. Only last week the San Mateo County Unemployment Relief Committee sent an urgent plea because of the need of the school and of the entire community for such a recreational center.

The growth of the local high school since its organization in 1922 has been beyond all expectations. Beginning with an enrollment of 45, it has grown to a school of over 600, an increase of more than 1300 per cent. Pupils travel to school by bus from the fartherest points of the district—from Brisbane on San Francisco Bay and from Sharps Park and Rockaway Beach on the Pacific Ocean. From Bay Shore City they come by street car.

Superintendent Ferguson predicts that the growth of the school will be even greater in the future. "Our industrial courses are being extended to meet the needs of our boys and girls," he says. "This year the board of trustees found it necessary to add a teacher in metal work and mechanical drawing. In addition, the enrollment in science was so far beyond expectation that another teacher was needed in biology. With the gymnasium and swimming pool we shall have the facilities to keep our physical education courses up to the highest standard. Every student in our school will learn to swim under the instruction of expert teachers."

Mr. Andrew Vireno is chairman of the board of trustees, and Mrs. Stella L. Jensen is clerk. The other trustees are Mrs. Pearl M. Jones, Remi Sanders and Ed. Weisenburger.

Entertains Club

Mrs. Wilna Plumb of Delano avenue, San Francisco, formerly residing in Daly City, entertained the members of her club at luncheon, at her home, Thursday of last week.

After luncheon a game of whist was enjoyed by the following members Mesdames M. Walker, M. Orr, G. Coolish, M. Smith, C. Ray and A. Wood of Daly City, and E. Ricille, L. Lovier and L. Cole of San Francisco.

POINT SAN PEDRO ROCKAWAY BEACH

The Pedro Point Improvement Association, recently formed, held its first meeting, September 6, going into action upon some matters vastly important to this community. The new organization is a lively, up-and-coming club, composed of forward-looking men who desire the best of everything for Point San Pedro, and who are, evidently, "out to get it." The coast highway, of which the Rockaway-Pedro unit is already started, has inspired in both communities an urge toward improvements. All the members of the Pedro Point association are property owenrs, sincerely interested in Pedro and eager for its advancement. After the first steps toward official organization were accomplished, the executive committee wasted no time, but at once put through the opening meeting, and got down to work. The new association is arousing intense interest, and without a doubt it will realize its ambitions and reach its goal, to the benefit of all concerned. Members of the executive committee are: Messrs. Pat Dempsey, Hermie Bryant, Roscoe Cole, Lloyd Simmons, David Clark, Patrick Donleavey, Art Remmers, Claire Seigmiller, Clarence Moeller, George Olmo, and Karl Strutz.

Mr. Edward Evans of Shelter Cove, got a big catch of fish over the week end, among them rock cod, capizoni and black snapper, of good size and weight. Mr. and Mrs. Jones, whose son has a cabin at the Cove, have been coming down every summer for a number of years and now they are enjoying the vacation life here. Work is still going on at the tunnel of the old Ocean Shore Railroad, where the road sweeps around the far side of Shelter Cove. Tuesday last there was considerable blasting and work was being energetically pushed. The balmy weather brought hosts of visitors to the Cove, to swim and picnic.

Mrs. Sarita Wilkison and Mr. and Mrs. Bennigsdorf were guests at the home of their sister, Mrs. Grace Danmann at Pedro last week.

It is hinted that the game warden is quietly watching to find out who is shooting at the covey of tame quails that fly around in this vicinity.

Mr. and Mrs. Art Remmer and Mr. and Mrs. Jensen were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Cathy, of San Francisco, one night last week.

Mr. Jim Troglia is as busy as a beehive these days, filling orders for California's good wines, locally and in San Francisco. How he finds time to attend to all the other important matters on his list and to be active in Rockaway on the school board, fire department, water department, and his store and gas station, is just one of those puzzling things. He thrives on hard work and enjoys it.

Rockaway's tent city spread out like a huge flower, these warm days and the beach cafes had about all they could do to supply the demands made upon them. A few weeks of such weather, and the coastside towns would be boasting new millionaires!

Mr. and Mrs. Beeler are gathering their tomatoes before they ripen, so that the gophers won't get them. They have had unusual success with cucumbers, squash, red cabbage and onions, on land that has never before been cultivated.

Rumor has it that Harry Rees' fine black horses won a silver cup and a blue ribbon at a recent wild west show. Harry neither confirms nor denies this, but the news comes on good authority. We hope it's true. Mr. Casanova bestowed a live possum upon Mr. Rees for a pet. It was placed in a pen in the garden, with a cement floor and strong wire fencing, but the next day the possum was missing. It still haunts the place, however, and at night it galumphs into Harry's tomato patch and gobbles up all the ripest tomatoes. But no matter how carefully Harry hunts in the daytime, that possum outsmarts him and stays hidden. Arthur Fitzgerald, who helps at the Harry Rees Tavern over the week ends, has a chum whose name is Rocco Compagno. The latter ceased to be a companion for two days last week, when he went on a fishing trip near Fort Bragg. Mrs. Rees' green lovebird perches on her finger and sings songs to her.

Mr. Harry Danmann has been quite ill with a heavy cold, but is now recovering and able to be about.

Those picturesque trees at the turn of the highway at Rockaway that made the town so pretty, will be sadly missed. Last week they were cut down.

A DARK ILLUSION IN JANE'S LIFE

(By Maude Larue Ives)

"What a great big girl you are growing up to be, you'll soon be as large as your mother."

"What makes you so chubby, little girl? Cream?"

"Hello Fatty, hurry or you'll be late for school."

In your childish thought your size grew to immense proportions. You felt enormous and clumsey. Yes, you knew exactly just how an elephant must feel.

Daddy was an excellent provider and mother baked such rich tasty food, fruit turnovers, whipped cream cake, cookies, fried chicken and biscuits. Everyone was hungry in those days especially you.

You played heliover with the berrypickers during the noonhour, but your legs were too short and fat to keep you in the lead.

It was after school and you were trugging along the road, carrying your empty lunch pail, empty, because you never left a crumb of the food, which mother so generously supplied. You saw that soon you were to meet two ponies and their riders. Yes, they were the Terry Boys returning from town, where they had been attending high school. They of course, like everybody else, always saluted you with the oft repeated words, "Hello Fatty." Always it was rasping to your sensitiveness. You hurriedly crawled under the fence and hid yourself behind a wild grape vine until your tormentors had passed. Someday, you promised you would be as skinny as a rail.

Just such a little girl, your dream picture, in the person of Cousin Mabel, came to visit you. She was towheaded and lean and pale of face. Her legs were bony and shapeless. She was constantly on the go, running, jumping and climbing trees and fences. You just couldn't keep pace with her.

Mother's friend said that you were just her ideal of a little girl, so chubby and freckled. "But all too soon she'll lose that childish plumpness as she grows taller." And she added, "May she never lose her lovableness."

You, supposedly asleep, that evening in the land of counterpane, drowsily absorbed all that was being said and you not only carried it with you into your dreams that night, but all through the following sunny summer days.

Instruction Books Differ

Instruction books coming with the latest automobiles differ greatly from those of an earlier day in the story they tell.

No motorist can afford to presume to know his latest car merely because he was fairly well acquainted with the one he owned before.

It still pays to read the instruction book for, otherwise, one cannot keep up with the procession. Now car features have wrought many changes in the design of the car as well as in performance. It pays to know them.

CLEAN BRAKES

Brakes should always be kept clean and free from road dust and other foreign substances.

If such accumulations are allowed to gather on the braking surfaces and brake mechanism they will absorb oil from the brake joints and eventually reduce braking efficiency.

EYES need PROTECTION, TOO!

Don't TAKE A CHANCE ON POOR LIGHTING!

EYES are like traffic police that tell us when light is weak or good, glaring or diffused as daylight. If your eyes squint, for example, don't neglect this warning. For squinting is often a telltale signal of poor lighting.

Guard your children's sight and your own, with better light. Whether it is for study, playing games, reading or sewing, make sure there is plenty of light, free from glare and well diffused throughout the room and not just parts of it.

Remember, better light is one of the best preventives of eyestrain, headaches and defective vision. Don't take any chances with improper lighting in your home. Ask for a free check-up of lighting conditions in your home today. There is no obligation.

● *Would you like to know whether your table and floor lamps give enough light for safe seeing. PLANNING OF "CHIEF" SAVED OUR COUNTRY

By J. W. MARCHBANK
Pioneer in Frontier Mining Work

Although not subscribing to the philosophy "each one for himself, the devil take the hindmost," I freely admit modern civilization has not gotten very far away from that sort of thing. So, it may be worth while to look a bit into its implications, especially as those implications are handled by the Roosevelt New Deal.

The program was well put by John Ruskin in "The Crown of Wild Olive" when he said while for one family there is a Goddess of Getting-on, to a thousand families she is the Goddess of not Getting-on. The great writer of the Victorian era had no use for "that thrice accursed,, thrice impious doctrine of the economist that "to do the best for yourself is finally to do the best for others."

The strain of a bit of unselfishness that goes all through the New Deal is found retrospectively in this quotation from Ruskin:

"If you can fix some conception of a true human state of life to be striven for—life for all men as for ourselves—if you can determine some honest and simple order of existence; following those trodden ways of wisdom, which are pleasantness, and seeking her quiet and withdrawn paths, which are peace—then, and so sanctifying wealth into 'commonwealth,' all your art, your literature, your daily labors, your domestic affection, and citizen's duty, will join and increase into one magnificent harmony."

A book recently published is called "I'm For Roosevelt." It was written by Joseph P. Kennedy, former chairman of the Securities and Exchange Commission. In a review in an anti-Roosevelt newspaper it is pointed out that the book is a dispassionate defense of President Roosevelt and his New Deal policies by a man who has no political ambitions for himself or his nine children and who believes that politics should be the acute concern of every citizen.

In his analysis of the New Deal the author says it was a constructive attempt to solve the problems the depression thrust upon the nation. He finds that the New Deal has carried forward the concept of planning, an idea, by the way, one finds in the Ruskin philosophy already quoted.

Kennedy justly accuses former President Hoover of being "blind" to the necessity of planning or unwilling to undertake it." While the securities expert admits the planning of the New Deal has not been perfect (what human work is perfect?) he says the necessity for drastic action in the 1933-1934 period justified the so-called revolutionary step in our economic development.

Much to the surprise of the crowd busily occupied in unwarrantably slinging such epithets as "red" and "communist" at President Roosevelt, the clear thinking author shows by means of statistics that the New Deal is in the black. The total debt of the country is now far lower than when the depression began. He says:

"The federal government's debt, it is true, has increased, but the long term of debt of businesses and individuals is lower as the result of refinancing, reorganizations and repayments. The short term debt of businesses and individuals is vastly lower."

Right to the point is the contention of author Kennedy that the NRA, if it had not been declared invalid, might have solved the problem of unemployment, and further holds that such decisions as that of the Supreme Court on the NRA never solve anything.

Service Tells New Reforestation Plan

One million seedlings from the Forest Service nursery at Susanville will be planted by the rangers mostly next spring according to Regional Forester S. B. Show.

The greater part will be planted on the Sugar Hill area in the Modoc National Forest, denuded by fire several years ago, and on the Burney Springs area of the Lassen National Forest where the Forest Service is converting brush fields into timber by the planting of over 500 miles of trees in wide strips through the chaparral.

Smaller areas in brush fields will be planted on the Plumas and Shasta forests.

OIL FILTER TEST

When the filter in your car is functioning properly it will feel warm after the motor has been running, due to the temperature of the oil circulating through it. If the oil filter feels cold to the touch after your car has been warmed up by running, it is a sign that the filter should be changed.

Our charter member list will close in a few weeks. We are allowing additional time for recipes, as so many of our housewives have so recently returned from vacation trips that they are still busy reorganizing their domestic routines. We shall look forward to printing in this column some of those tasty recipes they learned while away. Our membership names read in order as follows

An out of town reader sends in the following:

Peanut Cookies

Cream one and one-half cups of light brown sugar with three-fourths cup shortening, then add one egg, one-third cup of milk, two and a half cups sifted flour, one-half teaspoon soda, one-quarter teaspoon salt, one-quarter teaspoon nutmeg. (Add milk and flour alternately.) Two sacks salted coarsely chopped peanuts, one cup chopped raisins. These are drop cookies. Drop portion in pan and flatten out in proper shape. This recipe makes about fifty cookies.—From Mrs. Nettie Ives, Box 381, Tuolumne, Calif.

Oriental Cookies

(From the Farmer's Wife)

One-half pound butter, one-half cup powdered sugar, one cup coarsely chopped nuts, as much flour as it will take (two to three cups), dough must be crumbly. Mould into balls the size of walnuts and bake on cookie sheet or pan very slowly forty minutes. These are very dainty served at an afternoon tea.

Remember, housewives, the new address of The Record, 3317 San Jose avenue, and be sure to send us your contribution for this column soon.

In the Ford exhibit at the Cleveland Great Lakes Exposition is a novelty that has attracted the curiosity of thousands. SAYS THE RANK AND FILE IS NOW FOR PRESIDENT

Powerful Article In Illinois Newspaper Gives Strong Support To Roosevelt

That the rank and file of the American people, regardless of party affiliation, will stick by President Roosevelt in his fight to correct abuses brought upon the country by years of misrule, is the prediction of the Cicero (Ill.) News in a first page, powerful editorial printed recently.

The News declares that when the President began to correct the evils of government he found it necessary to take away special privileges, "in order to give us of the rank and file a fair chance to enjoy our heritage as free Americans. That is why they are trying to block his progress by unfair and dishonest attacks that appear daily in a hostile press that is roped and hog-tied with the vicious dollars of the same powerful individuals and interests. That is why we, as American citizens of the rank and file, should stick with the President.

"When we speak of the rank and file we include, among others, the bank depositors, who can today deposit their dollars in the banks without any fear because Franklin D. Roosevelt has provided them with depositors' insurance.

"When we speak of the rank and file we include the home owners and the farm owners, because the wisdom of Franklin D. Roosevelt's politics has protected the home and farm owner against unjust foreclosure.

"When we speak of the rank and file we include the small banker, because he is no longer at the mercy of the powerful banking institutions and the same insurance which protects his depositors protects him against raids on his bank.

"When we speak of the rank and file we include the business man, who again sees his business paying him a profit and who no longer faces commercial destitution, because a reasonable monotary policy has given the people once more a chance to get a dollar to spend.

"When we speak of the rank and file we include the laborer, who again faces a period of steady employment, because of Roosevelt policies which started up again the wheels of industry, providing jobs for the multitudes.

"When we speak of the rank and file we include honest people generally of all political parties, who are willing to give credit where credit is due; to the man, whose wisdom, detemination and patriotic endeavors have ended the greatest depression in the nation's history."

Sea Planes Aid To Fire Fighters

Forest Rangers in the Washington Cascade Range are looking for lakes a mile and a half long on which to land sea planes conveying fire fighters to forest blazes in remote parts of the national forests. Trial flights have been made from Seattle and five lakes have been selected out of forty surveyed, and arrangements made for the use of chartered planes when fires occur.

According to Forest Service officers the use of lakes as landing fields in remote regions where road construction is lacking will enable the Forest Service to get quick action with small crews on forest fires and save damage and fire fighting costs, in addition to the expense of constructing landing fields for land planes.

Making Parking Simpler

It unquestionably is true that many motorists contribute to their own difficulties in parking, particularly parallel parking. At no other time does a driver so desire a car that steers with case.

With steering so improved in design, achievement of this desire largely is a matter of keeping the system well lubricated and seeing that the tires are properly inflated. This does not create additional parking space, but it makes that which already exists easier to negotiate.

Lesson Sermon Of Christian Science

In all Christian Science Churches, branches of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Mass., a Lesson-Sermon will be read Sunday, September 13, on the subject "Substance."

The Golden Text will be "Now faith is the substance of things hoped for, the evidence of things not seen" (Hebrews 11: 1). Bible selections will include the following passages from Poverbs 3: 12, 14, 20, 21: "I wisdom dwell with prudence, and find out knowledge of witty inventions. . . . Counsel is mine, and sound wisdom: I am understanding; I have strength. . . . I lead in the way of righteousness, in the midst of the paths of judgment: That I may cause those that love me to inherit substance; and I will fill their treasures."

A passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy, will also be included, which reads as follows: "When understanding changes the standpoints of life and intelligence from a material to a spiritual basis, we shall gain the reality of Life, the control of Soul over sense, and we shall perceive Christianity, or Truth, in its divine Principle" (p. 322).

LEAKY MUFFLER

Carbon monoixide gas expelled from the cylinders must pass through the muffler to escape and for this reason it is important that the muffler and connection be kept in good repair.

Leaks anywhere between the engine and the rear end of the exhaust pipe may allow poisonous gas to enter the passenger compartment, causing illness and even endangering life.

The outside offices were deserted and silent.

But the noise of traffic drifted up from the street.

For almost a minute, that was the only sound in the room where these two men sat facing each other.

Then Peter said, "Yes, they were the same man."

"I was sure of it," Barry resumed. "The papers reported that Selby was drowned in Philadelphia. But the body they identified had been in the water two weeks. Fresh water. So that identification didn't amount to much. Violet Fane had told me Morano bought the house down town because he was 'married onct,' and he and his wife lived there. The sob-story I dug out of the tabloids said Selby was 'blissfully happy' with his bride in a house he'd rented down town. Obviously, the same house. Sentimental? Yes, but Morano was a sentimental cuss. So sentimental that he might have died rather than have it discovered that your wife was really his wife."

Barry saw Peter wince, but went on.

"Of course, he had another reason for resisting arrest—that 'hot spot' with which Kelly threatened him. If Morano had been arrested, and fingerprinted, they'd've learned that he was George Selby, and wanted for murder. Morano made certain of that. The 2:12 train he caught at the Penn station went to Philadelphia. That's where he was all the next day—checking up on the finger-prints taken when Selby was sent to the State penitentiary, and, perhaps, trying, through underground channels, to have them removed from the files.

"I had the motive for the murder now.

"Kelly knew Morano was Selby, and so that your wife was technically a bigamist. That was the threat he held over Morano, and Judge Hambidge. The threat that persuaded the Judge to write a 'crooked decision.' The paper Kelly had in his pocket was a marriage certificate, or something of the sort, he'd found somewhere."

"In an old trunk," Peter said; "in the house he bought at 24 Jefferson street."

Barry nodded.

"I doped that out, too. Both Morano and Hambidge had plenty of reason to kill Kelly.

"But neither had as much reason as you had.

"If you knew of the existence of that paper.

"And you did, didn't you? That's where Morano's telephone message came in. That's why he called you up from the Cocoanut Bar. To tell you he'd seen the paper, and Kelly had it."

"Right," Winslow said, simply.

"My inquiry was narrowing down to you and Morano. But how did either of you get in to Kelly? And then I remembered that, the day I first saw Mrs. Kelly, she came into that house and left her key in the door. I did the same thing this week. Anybody might. Especially a drunken man. That would explain why the key wasn't on Kelly's body. It would explain how our third caller entered while Kelly was talking to Judge Hambidge."

"Right," Winslow repeated.

"Was the third caller you or Morano? And then I remembered two things. Morano took the 2:12 to Philadelphia to check on those finger-prints. He wouldn't've done that if he'd known Kelly was dead. The house was dark and silent when Morano got to Sixteenth street. He thought Kelly'd gone to bed, and so he went to Philadelphia. I was sure of that. And I was sure that the man who killed Kelly wore gloves.

"I Doped That Out, Too."

"On a hot night.

"Not because he'd thought of finger-prints, but because he was accustomed to wearing gloves, even in summer.

"It was red-hot the day I came here to tell you about Nolan.

"And your gloves were lying there with your hat."

Peter smiled, faintly.

"I remember, too," he said. "You picked one of them up. But, of course, I might merely have been carrying them."

Barry smiled, also.

"You might," he admitted. "But the glove that fell on the floor was turned inside out. People don't carry gloves that way."

"Well," Winslow observed, "Harwood didn't make any mistake when he said you were a good newspaper man. You're right about everything. My wife was Mrs. Selby. She thought Selby was dead, of course, when she married me. Two or three years ago, I met him on the street. He was d—d decent. 'Believe it or not, I was terribly in love wtih Julie,' he said. 'I still am. But God knows I'm no husband for her, and you are. You've nothing to fear from me,' he said.

"But I did fear. All my life, I've had one conviction. Murder will out. Everything comes to the surface sooner or later. I urged Julie to get a divorce. 'I can't,' she said, 'without more dreadful publicity. It would ruin your career,' she said. Always thinking of me, Julie is."

He touched the tell-tale magnet, almost lovingly.

"We were still talking about it," he continued, "when Julie went all to pieces again. Just as she had when the tabloids printed the story you saw. I took her to Europe. When we came back, Selby'd disappeared. I didn't even know his new name, and, of course, I didn't look for him. I persuaded myself the danger was over.

"Then came the Jefferson street grab.

"I was upset about what the newspapers said of Judge Hambidge. I'd no idea of what was back of that, of course, and he didn't tell me. I figured that they'd got to him, somehow. And then Morano telephoned, the night of the murder, to say Kelly'd been to the Cocoanut Bar. He'd had the marriage certificate some time, and, through an underworld connection, he knew Selby was alive, but he'd only just found out that Selby was Morano. Someone had told him that afternoon—probably the same man who tipped off Luis' telephone message to Harwood. Kelly had said to Morano, 'Now I've got you, and Hambidge, and Winslow.' 'He has, too,' Luis added, 'unless you can find a way out of it.'"

Winslow's hand closed tightly.

"Julie was upstairs, asleep," he said. "She'd left me an hour before, radiantly happy. I went to see Kelly. Heaven knows what I intended to do. Certainly not murder. I was about to ring the bell, when I saw the key in the door, and used it. Kelly was talking to Hambidge. I recognized the Judge's voice, and slipped into the dining room. Listening, I learned why he had written that decision. And I heard Kelly say, 'If it ain't filed by noon today, I'll have your sister-in-law arrested for bigamy.'

"Hambidge said, 'You can do what you like; I won't file it.'

"The cut-glass decanter was on the table in front of me. I picked it up, almost mechanically. Kelly was in the hall then, shouting 'squealers' and 'beat it.' I suppose I had some vague idea of helping my brother-in-law. I don't know. Anyway, I opened the door between the dining room and the drawing room. And, as I did so, Kelly came in from the hall, closing that door behind him. His left hand was still on the knob when he saw me.

"'More squealers!' he shouted. 'Witnesses! So you heard, did you? Well, by God, you're not going to tell anybody!'

"He lifted his right hand, and there was a revolver in it.

"Another instant, and he'd've fired.

"I hurled the decanter.

"It was just instinct. I didn't take aim. There wasn't time. If I meant to do anything, it was to hit his pistol arm. I don't really know where the bottle did strike. The side of Kelly's head, probably, for it landed against a metal door-hinge, rebounded, fell into a chair, and rolled off to the floor. A moment afterward, Kelly went down in a heap.

"He wasn't dead. A long way from it, for the gun had dropped out of his hand, and he reached for it. I picked it up. Ten seconds later, Hambidge was on the other side of that door, trying to open it, and calling Kelly. I turned the lights out. Hambidge left. I put the revolver into my pocket, and got the certificate out of Kelly's. There was a white push-button in the door-frame. I pressed it—or thought I did—and hurried through the dining room into the street. Evidently, the bell didn't ring, for it seems that no one came to Kelly's assistance.

"It never occurred to me that Kelly was anything more than stunned. I went home, and burned that marriage certificate. There was no other record; I'd made sure of that. A few hours later, Hambidge phoned to say he'd filed his decision. There was nothing about Kelly in the morning paper. I'd no idea he was dead until long after dinner that night at Southampton."

Barry nodded.

"Of course, my first impulse was to give myself up," Winslow said. "But what good would that've done? They couldn't convict me. I'd killed in self-defense, and could come mighty near proving it. But, in doing so, I'd've given away the secret I'd struggled to keep all these years. I'd've smashed Julie utterly, and ruined Hambidge, and Pat. Nobody was harmed by my keeping my mouth shut. There wasn't a chance of their finding Ridder guilty, or anyone else. If they'd done that, I'd've confessed in a moment."

"I know," Barry declared. "That's what you meant when you said, 'If we have to get the guilty man to free Rogers, we'll do it, but let's give the court a chance first.'"

"Yes."

Peter rose, and went to the window.

"The difficult thing," he continued, "was not to confess. With that boy in jail. But it was letting an innocent man suffer a few weeks, or an innocent woman all her life. If you'd seen Julie's face, when she collapsed, after hearing of Selby's arrest—" He paused. "Of course, neither she nor Hambidge knows I killed Kelly."

Barry said, "They'll never know it through me.

"Bon voyage," he added, blithely, an instant later, his hat in his hand. "And come back soon. I'd like to have you two at my wedding."

EXPLAINS NEW OPPOSITION TO GAS MEASURE

on the popular sentiment against-diversion of gasoline tax funds.

"The major joker in Proposition No. 10 is a provision which would prevent the state Legislature at its coming session from working out a fair and proper method of taxing Diesel fuel used for highway operation. The measure provides that any tax hereafter imposed on fuel not now taxed in highway operation, as is the case with Diesel fuel, shall be the same per gallon as the existing tax on other motor fuels.

"In view of the fact that two to four times the mileage can be obtained from Diesel motor fuel than from gasoline, such a provision would assure Diesel trucks use of the highways at a considerably less cost in fuel taxes per mile than is paid by the general motoring public and operators of non-Diesel equipment.

"If there is anything to be said in support of such a wide differential in favor of one type of highway users at the expense of all others, the proper place to present the case is at the Legislature, where all controversial factors and practical difficulties can be reviewed and a workable and fair solution obtained.

"Such a question certainly has no justifiable place in any measure which purports to seek a straightforward decision by the people on a constitutional barrier to diversion of gasoline tax money. It has nothing to do with saving the gasoline tax. Its presence as a feature of Proposition No. 10 can not be condemned unless there is a willingness to see the 'Save The Gas Tax' principle exploited as a political smoke screen.

"There are other provisions in the measure which in more or less degree are foreign to the question of gasoline tax diversion. While they may not be exactly in the joker class, they are at least ambiguous and uncertain to an extent that probably would involve taking them to court for interpretation. Hence the measure is far from being a clean-cut 'Save The Gas Tax' proposal.

"There is even less justification for presenting this strange mixture of proposals under a 'Save The Gas Tax' masquerade when thought is given to the present strongly safe position of gasoline tax funds. The people have already spoken so emphatically on the subject in recent elections that the present use of the "Save The Gas Tax" slogan savors strongly of 'building up a straw man to knock it down.' A widespread, decisive, and overwhelming sentiment stands alert and ready to repulse gasoline tax raids, should any such ill-considered attempts be made.

"From the viewpoint of protecting gasoline tax funds, Proposition No. 10 is unnecessary. To pretend that these funds are in danger is merely setting the stage for a sham battle. The automobile association considers it a duty to present the truth concerning this measure and to seek its defeat."

Choose Safety All The Time

When it's speed or safety, choose safety. When it's adherence to the right of way or safety, choose safety.

The driver who takes chances must expect to take consequences. One may get away with frequent violations or live through hair-breadth escapes, but there is one traffic law that is enforced everywhere. That is the law of "averages."

An inexorable law under which no tickets are ever torn up, no fines remitted, no sentences suspended. It doesn't necessarily mean an accident, nor an injury nor a death whenever a driver takes a chance. But it does prescribe that with so many chances there is bound to be an injury and with many more a fatality.

It is stern law that cannot be ignored and it follows that the fellow who exposes himself to danger most frequently is the most frequent victim.

Why take foolish chances? Life is short enough at best. After all, a second saved is nothing in the eyes of Eternity.

NEW BAY BRIDGE OPENING IS TO BE GREAT FESTIVAL

Various Forms Of Entertainment Are To Feature Four Day Period

Buena Shoals, Coast Guard demonstration off of the Marina, Sea Scout races off of the Marina; outboard races, rowing club races, swimming and diving at Aquatic Park. A brilliant display of fireworks, from both sides of the bay, will signalize the lighting of the bridge.

On November 13, in San Francisco, a parade pageant will move from the Ferry building to the Civic Center, where 40,000 seats will be erected in grand stands. The pageant will depict the past, present and future of the metropolitan bay area and the floats will be of a type finer than any which have been shown hereabouts in the past. Twenty-two counties already have accepted the invitation to participate, with other acceptances coming in daily. The day pageant will take the form of a brilliant record of San Francisco's glorious past, and the accomplishments of the present and the future of the bay area, all depicted in spectacular floats.

On Saturday night, November 14, a pageant of light, depicting the romantic bridges of the world, will move up Market street and past the grand stands. Each float will be brilliantly lighted and on each unit will be singers and dancers representing the nations in which the bridges on the floats are built.

On Sunday, November 15, all of the churches in the city will hold special services to present the spiritual aspect of progress as represented in the completion of the bridge.

San Francisco will be decorated brilliantly for the celebration. Along Market street silver and rainbow hued decorations will suggest an elongated bridge with great silver bridges spanning the street at eight points. The foreign quarters of the city will be decked in gala attire, and every hotel, night club and theater will produce special events around the celebration. Fireworks will be the feature of each night.

Among the many other events which should attract great attention to San Francisco and the bay region during the festival will be the grand opera season, San Francisco Automobile Show, East Bay Manufacturers Exposition, the University of San Francisco-Texas Christian football game, the Oregon-California footbal game, and hundreds of other features, including fashion shows in the shops and special merchandise displays of all kinds.

Transportation experts anticipate at least 300,000 visitors to the bay region during the festival.

Later the same evening the department answered a second alarm from the same ranch and found a fire in another part of the buildings. Circumstances led firemen to believe the fires to be of incendary origin.

CLEAN THE CLEANER

Has the carburetor air cleaner on your car been cleaned in recent months? The chances are that it has not.

It is one of the easiest points of maintenance to overlook, yet the fact remains that at least twice yearly, the filtering element of the cleaner should be removed and subjected to a thorough bath.
